About the Community

Oakland Park, Florida is a city of approximately 45,000 people located in Broward County north of Fort Lauderdale in southeast Florida. The City of 8 square miles, situated just west of the Atlantic Ocean, boasts wonderful parks and recreation facilities, an independent library, and numerous canals, rivers, and lakes. The City’s ambition to undertake the ANCR benchmarking process was driven by the ambition to explore its community resilience as Oakland Park is looking to the future to replace and modernize the City’s aged and outdated infrastructure to better meet the needs of the community.

The benchmarking process invited critical thinking on a wide range of topics related to risk and resilience of buildings in Oakland Park and facilitated connections across departments and with external collaborators. The below summary captures the major themes uncovered during the benchmarking process including where Oakland Park is leading and where there are opportunities for additional improvements.
